Light matters

Italian lighting designer Stefano dall'Osso and his team have designed the lighting of an evocative and meditative area at the courtyard of a care home in Santa Venera, Malta.

The courtyard is a dynamic structure, an appendix of the nursing home. It is a space that Maltese architect Richard England has expressed in a composite way to guarantee changing new perspectives for the residents, with alternating green spaces, water pools and lively colours. Dall'Osso says the lighting carried out respects the architecture and enhances its variety of geometric shapes and colours, creating light without being intrusive.
